

Brief information:

From October 13 to October 25th, 2023, we conducted an incentivized study with participants recruited from the Forthright Access platform. Participants were asked to watch a video about a charity and complete donation tasks. Participants were endowed with tokens that represented money and asked to donate to a charity - Feed the Children under three different scenarios. The scenarios differed conditionally on the endowment and if there is an additional donation made to the charity by the research team. Feed the Children is a charity which mostly focuses on feeding hungry children, helping families and communities to relieve hunger.

Incentive structure:

Subjects were informed that one donation decision would be implemented, and the research team will transfer their donations to Feed the Children. The research team provided subjects with the link to this page and informed the workers that proof of their donations would appear on this webpage after the study. The provision of the link ensures the transparency of the study and subsequent donations and provides assurance to the subjects that their donations would be delivered to the end recipient.

After the study, we calculated total donations from the selection decisions and transferred them to the charities.

The page provides certificates of the donations on behalf of our subjects to Feed the Children.
